

Volunteering ideas in Pictures

Introduction

We have put together this booklet to provide you with ideas and inspiration of how you might bring colour and life to indoor and outdoor spaces in your community.

Our hope is not to overwhelm you, but to inspire and encourage you to take an idea from here, or come up with your own, and implement it in your community project.

We think it's important to mention that some of these photos are from projects that took months to organise and, in some cases, we enlisted the help of graphic designers to create a cohesive vision for multiple spaces. Some however, were done in a day and all of the projects you see in this booklet were completed by employee volunteers under the guidance of Volunteer Ireland's Corporate Team.

As you look through the photos think about an element of one of these projects that could be completed in your school, organisation or community. For example, sanding and painting benches in bright primary colours, a simple geometric mural, painting fences in block colours, clearing an overgrown garden area, trimming hedges, repainting and planting up existing flowerpots or adding some easy to build IKEA furniture.

Whatever you do, we hope that your project will bring colour and joy to both those in the community and those we turn up to volunteer.
